

International Journal for Research on Extended Education

The International Journal for Research on Extended Education \(IJREE\) cordially invites submissions on extended education from scholars around the world.

Extended education programs—though called using different names, around the world—are becoming an increasingly important part of the educational systems across many countries. An increasing number of studies have thus been conducted to better investigate this area. The IJREE is unique in that it covers international studies in the field of extended education. Since its debut in 2013, the bi-annual journal has been published continuously with its 12th issue as of 2019. Information on previous articles as well as most recent news on IJREE activities can be found at:

IJREE is looking for further studies that offer meaningful insight into extended education, and thus invites you to submit your valuable work. We also request your help in disseminating this call for papers to your colleagues. Author guidelines can be found at: <https://www.budrich-journals.de/index.php/IJREE/about/submissions - authorGuidelines>.
